

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image sensor includes a substrate having a plurality of photosensitive sites for capturing an image and a plurality of additional photosensitive sites adjacent the image capturing photosensitive sites in which there is no image capture; and a digital signal embedded in one or more of the additional photosensitive sites for the purpose of identification.

5